Mr. Henke also made the following comments:

- Multi-unit developments would still be considered by the Council.

Note: A copy of Mr. Henke's presentation is contained in the supplemental file.

Corbin Gordon also gave a presentation regarding possible options and made the following comments:

- The law could not be challenged.
- Advised against development approvals being conditional use permits.
- Lowering density was an extreme response.
- Advised against wholesale and extreme responses because of the public outcry and the state legislative response.
- The Council should focus on items it could control like zoning.
- Most of the value of a property had to be wiped out for it to be a taking.

Note: A copy of Mr. Gordon's presentation is contained in the supplemental file.

The Council, staff, and meeting attendees discussed the following items:

- Full density developments were of the most concern.
- Vacant land with legislative agreements or approvals should be identified.
- The current process should continue to be followed for large-scale developments, maybe based on the zone.
- The City should plan for the future.
- Was the current municipal code what the Council wanted?
- Should developments over five dwellings be phased?
- The state mandated changes would not increase affordable housing.
- The City should pick its battles.
- Should greater open space be required?
- Should the Council adopt a performance-based code?
- Consolidations of lots did not need to be considered by the Council.
- It was a benefit to have developers negotiate with the Council. Developers had been cooperative in these negotiations.
- It was surprising how many developers did not maximize density.
- The Council should submit ideas to staff.

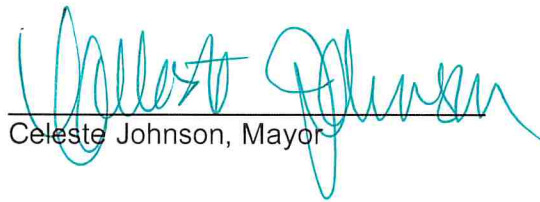

The Council decided to have a four-hour work meeting to continue to discuss the issue.

- 3. Utah State Legislature / 2024 Session Summary (Katie Villani – Approximately 30 minutes) – Receive and discuss a summary of the Utah State Legislature’s 2024 session.

The item was not discussed.
